Case No. 14-cv-05344 BLF (NC)

ORDER GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING IN PART CISCO'S
MOTION FOR PROTECTIVE
ORDER BLOCKING THE JOHN
CHAMBERS DEPOSITION

Re: Dkt. No. 270

17 In this patent and copyright infringement case, plaintiff Cisco Systems moves to 18 block the proposed deposition of Cisco's Executive Chairman of the Board and former 19 CEO John Chambers. Cisco argues that Chambers lacks unique knowledge about the case
20 and that other witnesses should be questioned in his place. The Court, in the interest of a
21 "just, speedy, and inexpensive" determination of this action, resolves the motion promptly
22 and without a hearing. Fed. R. Civ. P. 1.

23 Cisco relies on a line of decisions regulating discovery at the highest level or 24 "apex" of corporate management. See Celerity, Inc. v. Ultra Clean Holding, Inc., No. 05-
25 cv-4374 MMC (JL), 2007 WL 205067, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 25, 2007). Discovery
26 demanded from the top of the corporate hierarchy creates potential for abuse. Id. To 27 address this concern, many courts have required a party seeking an "apex" deposition to 28 establish that the witness has unique personal knowledge of facts at issue in the case.

Case No. 14-cv-05344 BLF (NC)

1 Protection of a high-level witness is especially appropriate when the information sought
2 can be obtained through less intrusive discovery methods (such as interrogatories) or from 3 depositions of other witnesses with more direct knowledge of the facts. Id.

4 In this case, the parties have been tussling over the number and scope of 5 depositions for many months. On April 15, 2016, in response to a motion for clarification,
6 District Court Judge Beth Labson Freeman ordered that in allowing 20 depositions per 7 side, “the parties are free to choose any deponents they wish to fill the initial 20 slots.”
8 Dkt. No. 248. Applying this invitation, Arista sought to depose Chambers before the May 9 27 discovery deadline. Arista agreed to limit the deposition to four hours. Dkt. No. 289.

10 I find that Cisco has not established good cause to block the deposition. First, the 11 trial judge already ordered that Arista could choose “any deponent” to fill the deposition
12 slots. Dkt. No. 248. Second, I am persuaded that Chambers possesses relevant knowledge
13 about Cisco’s competition strategy against Arista and unique knowledge of his 14 communications with customers. Third, Cisco deposed Arista’s CEO and Chairman of the 15 Board, so a deposition of Chambers is a fair burden. Dkt. No. 289 at 2.

16 On the other hand, because (1) Arista has already deposed more than 20 Cisco
17 witnesses, (2) Chambers has retired from active management duties, and (3) the fact
18 discovery deadline has passed, the deposition will be limited to two hours. See Apple Inc.
19 v. Samsung Electronics Co., Ltd., No. 11-cv-1846 LHK (PSG), 2012 WL 1511901, at *12
20 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 27, 2012) (granting further two-hour deposition of Apple lead designer 21 Jonathan Ive).

22 By June 16 at 11:00 a.m. the parties must meet and confer and agree on a time and 23 location for the deposition. The deposition must be completed by June 30, 2016. The 24 parties must submit a joint update when they have agreed on a time and place for the 25 deposition.

26 IT IS SO ORDERED.
